EDITIORS CONSTITUTION: I notice that several recent numbers of THE CONSTITUTION have contained earnest appeals—ostensibly from the clerks—in favor of closing the dry goods stores at six o'clock p. m. during the summer months. No doubt an evening's recreation would be very pleasant to those gentlemen, but as the stores were established for the joint benefit of the proprietors and the public, there are evidently two sides to the question. At all events, I would be glad for the proprietors to know what Mrs. Grandy has to say on the subject, she being a customer.

And first. I have to say that the clerks of dry goods establishments already enjoy more privileges than are accorded in business houses generally, as the former are uniformly closed at dark, while very many of the latter zro kept open till bed-time. I therefore cannot well see the justice of this claim for still greater opportunities for recreation and pleasure.

The presidential prognosticators pushing to the front again. The ancient Thurlow Weed leads off with the prediction that there will be no occaion for Grant to run again, and that the republican nominee will be either Senator Booth or Elihu B. Washburne.

THE same organs that have been lamoring against those who desire the repeal of the resumption act are now complaining because a large number of the new silver dollars are in the treasury vaults. It is about time for the able and talented editors of the organs to ring their fog-bells.

Somewhere in our desk we have a hotograph of Robert J. Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeye. He is a moustache, which seems to have grown naturally, and of its own accord, has an appearance of meek and lowly tenderess. No one would suppose that this effeminate looking man sits up until two o'clock in the morning drinking beer and endeavoring to crush the re-many society of New York, Senator Bayard presents the overshadowing issue before the country. He urges that every day between this time and the election day in 1880 is a fit and proper day for its consideration. Let, he adds, the people proclaim as their resolves:

First—That they will have free elections in all the states, undisturbed and unawed by federal interference, civil or military.

Second—The verdict of the people rendered

t the polls shall be faithfully recorded, and hall be accepted and obeyed. Third—That the men or the party who shall stand in the way of these resolves shall be with-ered by the wrath of an earnest and honest people, who love civil liberty as enshrined in se-publican institutions, and intend to preserve it for themselves and their posterity. Senator Bayard insists that all other

We give his concluding words: This issue is now the great essential in support of which not only every demerat but all just-minded and conser stive citizens of every party mus ally; and when it has been secured then we may afford to differ and array ourselves at will upon questions of olitical economy, whose importance uily recognize, but which pale into insignificance before the pressing and primary questions, Shall our elections e free, and shall their results be acuiesced in and obeyed by all?"

It really seems that John Sherman's tricks will never get done coming to he surface. His latest meanness is which says it is stated upon good an thority that when Jay Cooke & Co failed, during the panic of 1873, and their affairs were being wound up by Receiver Stanton, it was discovered that John Sherman was a stockholder n the concern to the extent of $100,-000. As it was the duty of the received to bring action against all stockholders alike for the benefit of depositors, Mr. Stanton wrote to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, calling attenion to the fact that Sherman's name red upon the list of stockholders, ime chairman of the senaté committee on finance, and upon learning of the matter he addressed a letter to the court on the subject. In this letter Sherman represents that, while he did appear nominally as owner of this stock, yet he had never derived any His career at the head of the Savanna actual benefit from it, and to be held esponsible because he appeared merey as a nominal stockholder would be o inflict a great hardship upon him. In the first place there seems to be a wide-spread misconception of Mr. Mallon's nativity, and when misrepresention, the offspring of ignorance, wit without malice, is banging at the loor of a prominent official, it is at least proper that errors should be corrected and truth established. Fair dealing especially in the matter of a man's personal status, is one of society's most sacred duties.

—Hartwell Sun: The feat of climbing the rocky wall of Grand chasm at Tallulah falls was accomplished for the first time on Wednesday last by Rev. E. H. Wood and Dr. Albert Hape. Both are athletic, museular men, and during the climbing gave each other some novel assistance. The height of the cliff at this point is over eight fundred feet and the walls are almost perpendicular, yet the distance was made in about an hour. At one difficult pass the preacher led (not in prayer), and having secured a footing on an overhanging rock, held a pole for his friend to climb up by. On the homestreach Dr. H. was in advance and was suspended from a precipice while Mr. Wood, who was about twelve feet belew, seized his leg and climbed to a safe anchorage on the rock above. Neither express a desire to repeat the experiment.
